I have spoken with the City manager about bringing an update to us on the Port Master Plan bill, including the advocacy package. He can do this as soon as March 13.

Also, I believe that having a legislative committee spend some time reviewing our Legislative Platform - a document that hasn't been updated since 2013 - still has merit. The group can meet 2-3 times, open to the public, to integrate new issues like public safety, offshore oil drilling, pension reforms, transportation taxes, homelessness, sea level rise planning, and much more.
